Hudson City Schools Foundation Launches Web Site

HUDSON, Ohio – April 12, 2010 – The Hudson City Schools Foundation has launched its interactive Web site (www.hudsonschoolsfoundation.com). The Hudson City Schools Foundation is a community-based organization that strives to enhance the Hudson City School District's programs and facilities through private funding so the students can have the best educational advantages.

"Hudson City Schools are already first-class, but for our young people to be able to compete in today's global marketplace, the schools need to be world-class," said Jim Hackney, a trustee of the Hudson City Schools Foundation. "Our Web site provides community members with volunteer opportunities, as well as ways to donate in order to enhance our school programs in the arts, academics and athletics."

Intended for residents, business owners, Hudson City School Alumnus and members of the Hudson City Schools Foundation, the Web site provides information about the foundation, proposed program and facility updates, and encourages the community to get involved.

Features of the site include a "How can I help?" page, offering different options for community members to support the Hudson City Schools Foundation. The site also features a donation/PayPal page, foundation membership information for residents and business owners, and a message from the President of the Hudson City Schools Foundation. Members of the Hudson community can also stay up-to-date on news and events by visiting the Web site. The site will also link to the Hudson City Schools Alumni page.

Visitors to the site can also view a map of the proposed athletic complex, and which areas are available for purchase and naming rights.

"We are very pleased with the launch of our new Web site," Hackney said. "I think it will serve as a great tool for educating the community about the purpose of the Hudson City Schools Foundation, and encourage the people of Hudson to become involved so that we can provide greater educational opportunities for our students."
